Inspiring Adolescent Children to Love Themselves!

An evening presentation for parents

Most of us were not welcomed into adulthood in a meaningful or empowering ways...

As a result, many women consider their periods “nuisance,” “bother,” or “the curse.” For men, the lack of a significant Rite-Of-Passage often translates into different “curses” in their lives as adults.

Parents vow to create a different experience for their children, only to find them rolling their eyes up and running away. What's wrong with this picture?

The first stepping-stone to welcoming our children into adulthood is addressing our own Coming-Of-Age as parents. The next step is strengthening the community within which our children come of age.

This evening will emphasize girls' rites of passage, yet will expand to include men's and boys' experiences. The evening aims to empower parents of both genders to become comfortable with their children's transition into adulthood, and guide them in navigating the Coming-Of-Age journey with ease and confidence.

This evening is open to ALL - women & men are welcome!

Free to weekend workshop participants - $10-$20 sliding for evening only
